Mr. Hui generously supports local community development through investments in hospitals, schools, the arts and entertainment. As an extraordinary example of how social responsibility and leadership fosters collaborative societies he is truly a model of global citizenship.

As Kathryn White, President and CEO of UNA-Canada notes, "At a time when the global community is establishing sustainable development goals, it was important to acknowledge the leadership role that Terry Hui has played, and is committed to playing, in creating a sustainably built environment. He has devoted his professional life to the creation of sustainable communities and is well deserving of this recognition and honour."

Sandra Stuart, President and CEO of HSBC Bank Canada, said: "HSBC and UNA-Canada share a commitment to sustainably building for the future – supporting access to education to help young people reach their full potential and help to protect our natural environment. So we are pleased to join them in celebrating the many contributions Terry Hui has made to enrich our communities and ensure they remain healthy in the long term."

UNA-Canada was grateful to HSBC Canada, our presenting sponsor and host of our 2015 Global Citizen's Dinner. Proceeds from this event will support UNA-Canada's youth, education and policy development programmes across the country. Our key programmes target Canadian youth, human rights, sustainable development, the environment, peace building and corporate social responsibility.
